DESCRIPTION:

This tour promises to provide enjoyable sightseeing in Kyoto that is one of the oldest cities in Japan and was the original capital from 794 thru 1868, when the government was transferred to Tokyo (<http://www.kyoto.travel/>).

Day 1:

Kinkaku-ji Temple (Golden Pavilion) - its pagoda, situated in the Japanese style garden, is covered with gold leaf. When the original structure burned down, the existing one was built as an exact duplicate, retaining the original splendor.

Nijo Castle - the residence of the Tokugawa family which was one of the most powerful Shogun and it is known for its gorgeous interiors and Nightingale corridor (UGUISU-BARI) of Ninomaru Palace. This is also the place Tokugawa family returned sovereignty to the Emperor (TAISEI HO-KAN) in 1867.

Geiko Entertainment - it will be rare chance to meet Maiko or Geiko directly with Kaiseki style Japanese dinner. They will answer any questions, perform a short dance and pose for pictures with everyone.

Day 2:

Kiyomizu Temple - was founded in 780 and remains associated with the Hosso sect that one of the oldest sects within Japanese Buddhism. It stands in the wooded hills and offers a nice view of Kyoto from its famous wooden terrace (KIYOMIZU NO BUTAI).

Sanju Sangendo - in the main hall which is 400 feet long corridor, there is a principal image – 1,000 armed goddess of mercy and 1,000 of other goddess of mercy statues with 30 of guardian statues lined up. 124 statues in those have been exists since when the original temple building had constructed.

Fushimi Inari Shrine - it is known as ten thousand of red torii gate called Senbon Torii that lined up from behind of the shrine to top of sacred mountain, Inari-yama. Fushimi Shrine is the most important of shrines dedicated to Inari which Shinto God of rice.
